Meenakari Jewellery

Meenakari work jewellery is traditional Indian jewellery where the metal is covered with brightly coloured patterns of flowers, birds, leaves, and other traditional Indian designs. The skilled Indian artisans who do the enamelling use old methods that have been perfected over many ages. The Meenakari collection at Golekh International includes necklaces, earrings, rings, earring tikka sets, and beautiful bangles.

Kundan Jewellery

Kundan Jewellery is a form of Indian jewellery that has been around for centuries. It is known for its intricate designs, stunning craftsmanship. Kundan jewellery is a popular choice for Indian brides, who wear it on their wedding day as a symbol of wealth and prosperity. It is also known as Kundan Keshri. It began in Rajasthan's royal courts and flourished during the Mughal Empire with imperial assistance. The Kundan collection at Golekh International includes necklaces, earrings, anklets, rings and beautiful maangtikka sets.

Temple Jewellery

Different kinds of Indian jewellery include Temple Jewellery, Jewellery for deities, or nakshi, and wedding jewellery. As the name suggests, temple gold was once used to decorate the statues of Indian gods and goddesses. In Indian temples, people still follow the custom of worshipping gods with heavy gold jewellery. Some of the ornaments that make up these big, well-made pieces of jewellery are earrings, necklaces, waist belts, banjubands, and lockets.

Antique Jewellery

Indian antique jewellery is renowned for its exquisite craftsmanship and rich cultural heritage. Antique jewellery showcases the artistry and cultural diversity of India. The use of techniques like Kundan, Meenakari, and Polki adds a unique charm to these pieces. From elaborate necklaces and chokers to intricately designed earrings, Indian antique jewellery captivates with its timeless beauty.

Mirror Jewellery

Mirror jewellery has been around for centuries in Indian fashion jewellery and has become a popular trend in the international market in recent years. These mirror pieces come in different shapes, sizes, and colours, providing a vast array of choices for customers looking for unique jewellery pieces. We have Jewellery made of mirrors, such as a necklace, earrings, maangtikka and many more.

Floral Jewellery

GOLEKH
INTERNATIONAL

In the past few years, the biggest game-changer has been floral jewellery for women. Who would have thought that flowers could also make the bride look beautiful? Well, almost no brides wear flower jewellery with their mehendi or haldi outfits these days. Not only do flowers smell nice and look beautiful, but they also help to lighten the load of those big wedding jewelleryes.

American Diamond Jewellery

Jewellery made with American diamonds is made to look like real diamonds. This means that they are much cheaper than real diamond jewellery. American diamonds are made in special labs to look like real diamonds. AD jewellery collection has necklace, earrings, stud earrings rings, maangtikka, bangles and bracelets, earrings tikka set, pendent set, mangalsutra and anklets.

Polki Jewellery

Polki Jewellery has been a traditional Indian art form for centuries, renowned for its intricate design and use of uncut diamonds. This type of jewellery has always been popular among brides and has played a significant role in Indian weddings. Over the years, the demand for Polki jewellery has spread beyond Indian borders, with people from all around the world seeking to own this elegant and authentic form of jewellery.

Oxidised Jewellery

Indian fashion jewellery has a vast array of popular styles, and one of them is the trend of oxidised jewellery. It is created by applying a layer of silver onto the surface of the jewellery, which is then oxidized to create a dark and antique-like finish. This technique has been used in India for centuries to create intricate designs that showcase the beauty of Indian craftsmanship.

Monalisa Jewellery

Monalisa Jewellery is a popular line of fashion jewellery known for its elegant and sophisticated designs. This jewellery line offers a wide range of jewellery items, including necklaces, bracelets, earrings, and rings. Monalisa Jewellery is especially popular for its use of high-quality materials such as crystals, pearls, and gemstones that are carefully selected to create stunning and unique designs.
